

A DIFFERENT APPROACH FOR TEACHERS

“A long day of teaching and late nights doing paperwork: teacher responsibilities are great. But help is coming. Imagine a small device in your pocket that allows you to simply touch it to document observations about academic, social or behavioral aspects of a specific student in just a few seconds. Consider a future where you can quickly photograph work produced by your students over time. And when a student behavioral episode occurs, a detailed referral is just a few taps away.

When the guardian teacher meeting date arrives, simply click one button to print out a professionally organized easy to read report for your meeting. Parent/guardians are thrilled at your attention to detail, and will renew their interest in helping the student at home.

Then, when the IEP or RTI meeting is upon you, you’re ready with more detailed observations than ever before. School administrators and parent/guardians will be pleasantly surprised about the breadth of knowledge you possess regarding each and every student, across any of the 14 government categories of disabilities and the Tier System.

Have you ever had a student you’d like to monitor for possible academic, social, behavioral or even a potential disability? Add the student in minutes and after just a few clicks, you’re tracking and trending on any custom or pre-loaded template goal you wish.

A DIFFERENT APPROACH FOR ADMINISTRATORS

“Expectations and responsibilities for administrators are greater than ever before. Imagine an informatics tool that records student observations at the point of transaction for academic, behavioral and socio-emotional dimensions in all school environments. Evalyon is a tool that perpetually collects meaningful and actionable educational data by all stakeholders.

Consider a future where participation and data collection by all academic and enrichment program teachers, including coaches, will be accessible with the touch of a button within your laptop or iPod that allows you access to compiled data from academic, social or behavioral aspects of all students in seconds. You have access to data recorded in real time, consumable and actionable by stakeholders based on an increased awareness of life-improving metrics that record student observations with security, simplicity, speed of entry and ease-of-use. Reports are accessible to school boards and Federal government entities simply by pressing the print button.

You are able to provide budgetary savings by reduced paperwork. Additionally, the use of Evalyon can result in acquisition of funding sources for schools through grants and Title 1 funds. Evalyon delivers across numerous technological platforms, providing an unprecedented method of developing statistical models using scales (such as Likert-type) for measuring student data with the efficacy of developing fully powered randomized controlled studies.
